Monterey Peninsula College offers a tutorial program to assist students to achieve their educational goals while attending college. Tutoring, in support of the instructional program, is offered through individual and small group tutorial sessions. Tutoring is intended to help students understand and successfully complete courses they are currently enrolled in. It is not intended to prepare students for future courses or tests. Students registered in core classes are eligible for tutoring, unless a tutor cannot be identified for the course in question or there is a scheduling conflict with the student and the tutor.
