

MLA Style Citations

Print and Electronic Sources

This handout covers the latest MLA Citation Style that was updated in 2009. It is quite a bit easier to use than the previous version. In the reference section we have the latest MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers 7th edition that explains MLA Citation Style in more depth. Its call number is: REF LB 2369 .G53 2009.

If you have any questions please feel free to ask for help.

1. The list of works cited appears at the end of the paper.
2. The list begins on a new page which is numbered continuing the page numbers of the text. For example, if your paper ends on page 6, the works cited list will begin on page 7.
3. The page number should be placed in the upper right-hand corner, half an inch from the top and flush with the right margin.
4. Center the title Works Cited, one inch from the top of the page.
5. Double space between the title and the first entry.
6. Each entry should begin flush with the left margin. If the entry is more than one line, indent the next line or lines one-half inch (or 5 spaces).
7. Capitalize all significant words, except articles (a, an, the), prepositions (of, to, in, against) and coordinating conjunctions (and, but, for, nor, or so, yet).
8. Alphabetize the list.

Periodicals from Library Subscription Databases

When citing periodicals from a database use the proper citation format needed for the type of periodical it originally came from (weekly magazine, journal or newspaper). Since the article comes from a library subscription database like Ebscohost or Newsbank you also add the additional information for the title of the database, medium of publication consulted (Web) and the date of access (day month year). See the examples below:

Article in a weekly magazine from a library database

Author. "Title of Article." Title of Magazine Day Month Year: Page numbers. Database Name. Web (Medium of publication). Date of access (day month year).

Speka, John. "Jack Kerouac and New Visions of On the Road." Newsweek 26 Oct. 2007: 47-48.
Academic Search Premier. Web. 28 Oct. 2007

Article in a monthly magazine from a library database

Author. "Title of Article." Title of Magazine Month Year: Page numbers. Database Name. Web (Medium of Publication). Date of access (day month year).

Roberts, Paul. "Tapped Out." National Geographic June 2008: 86-91. LexisNexis. Web. 22 Aug. 2008.

Article in a journal from a library database

Hutchison, David. "Altan: Gaelic Music Masters." Journal of Irish and Gaelic Music 12.2 (1999): 22-34. Academic Search Premier. Web. 20 Nov. 2007.

Article in a daily newspaper from a library database

Author. "Title of Article." Title of Newspaper Date: Page number. Database Name. Web (Medium of publication). Date of access (day month year).

Parker, Josh. "Surfing the Central Coast of California." Monterey County Herald 30 June 2005: A3. Newsbank. Web. 28 Nov. 2007.

Material from the Internet

In the past, when citing Web sources you would put down the URL/Web address in the MLA citation. In the new style it is not required; it is now considered supplemental information. You should only include the URL when the reader probably cannot locate the source without it or when your instructor requires it. If you do include the URL you put it in brackets at the very end of the citation, after the date of access.

Professional Web Pages

(if no date then put n.d.). Web (Medium of publication). Date of access (day month year).

United States Copyright Office. Library of Congress. 27 Nov. 2007. Web. 3 Dec. 2007

Biography.com. A&E Television Networks. 2007. Web. 3 Dec. 2007.

Clean Water Classic Surfabout. Surfrider Foundation. n.d. Web. 30 June 2008.

Article from a Website

Cite the article with all the information you would normally use from a print version, then add the medium of publication (Web) and date of access (day month year).

Greenhouse, Linda. "Supreme Court Debates Copyright Protection." New York Times Online 28 Mar. 2001. Web. 3 Dec. 2007

Phillips, Kathryn. "Bluefin's Cold Heart Hits Rock Bottom." Journal of Experimental Biology 207 (2004): 710+. Web. 3 Dec. 2007.

**For scholarly journals only: if there are no original page numbers listed for your source then you put 'n.pag.' where the original page numbers would go.

Cohen, Kenneth. "A Mutually Comprehensive World?" American Indian Quarterly 26.1 (Winter 2002): n.page. Web. 3 Dec. 2007.

Web Resource with URL at the end.

As mentioned above, URL's are not needed anymore for MLA citations but are instead supplemental. If you need to include the URL you add it to the very end of the citation, after the date of access, in brackets with a period at the end.

Clean Water Classic Surfabout. Surfrider Foundation. n.d. Web. 30 June 2008.
