

Prepositional phrases

- A phrase is not a sentence; it does not contain a subject and verb.

in the café

- A prepositional phrase consists of a preposition and its object (a noun or pronoun)

to her

- The subject of a sentence can NEVER be found in a prepositional phrase.

Prepositional phrases can tell us in which direction the action is moving. In this case, we can think of Robert's action moving toward the woman.

Prepositional phrases can also specify a location.

Robert proposed to her

in the café.

Prepositional phrases add lots of thrilling information!

- The girl with the long red hair ran away with the money.
- Pablo met his future wife at his best friend's house.
- At the end of the novel, after an exciting chase, the lovers flee to Mexico.